[illegible] Sheep Dog [illegible] What's up now? What's up? he repeated, and I could see the blood in his eye, didn't you tell me that that dog was a good sheep dog? "Well, yes, is that?" "Why the infernal cur killed five of my best wethers the first night." "Well," I replied, looking as innocent as possible, "I knew he would kill sheep. I thought that was what you wanted him for." It was a long time before I [illegible] was a misunderstanding [illegible] and I doubt yet whether he is fully satisfied.—[illegible] Mercury.

A [illegible]—Senator Carlile, who represents or rather misrepresents Virginia in the United States Senate recently said in the course of a debate that "if he had had the means of supporting his family without the three thousand a year he received as a Senator, he would have resigned his seat on the very day that the State of West Virginia was recognized by the Senate." Mr. Carlile at all events is candid. He belongs to the order of patriots celebrated by the poet, of whom it is said, "few die and none resign." He had been misrepresenting the loyal constituents upon whose behalf he holds his seat, and confesses that he did so because three thousand dollars a year was an attraction which he could not relinquish. No doubt there are as many more Congressmen who are quite as sordid, but they make a show of earning their [illegible] even though in their own souls they may feel that they do not earn it. Mr. Carlile being a plain spoken man, tells the story of his own shame and seems to glory in it.

Justice vs Mercy

[illegible]

It was the great and noble heart of Lincoln that attuned the Nation's thoughts to mercy. It was the impulse of his kindly nature that with magnetic power swayed every mind to kindred purposes and lo! to [illegible] a change has come up in the souls of men and from the eastern ocean to the western sea there is a cry for vengeance. It is because long suffering and forbearance have been of no avail and the last damning act the world need not be told of must be avenged. There is no escape from that conclusion, for though the assassin has met his fate and his terrible tragedy has been partly expiated by his mortal agonies, though the accomplices of the immediate crime are held to answer to the laws, still there are the great conspirators high in official place and power whose minds planned through long years the rebellion we have crushed and at last have induced the perpetration of an act that leaves their names only to be branded for all time as synonymous with infamy. The arm that strikes is but the tool—the greater criminal is the master traitor who conceives what others execute.

One month ago Jefferson Davis was chief of millions with more than one hundred thousand bayonets bristling to protect his power. To day he is a defeated rebel and a fugitive and outlawed felon. It would have been a national sin to have forgotten much less forgiven his treason long planned and deliberately executed but the [illegible] of his pretended government has been blackened by [illegible] and assassination.

The barbarities of rebel warfare are without parallel but [illegible] the accumulating proof that civilization found no place in their councils and that hate found no limit to its accomplishment. Open warfare is cruel beyond measure but there never was a time when the heart of our people could conceive and plan, that the stealthy step of the assassin should make warfare cowardly, or the hand of the incendiary fire sleeping cities. It is proved that rebel agents lighted the waves of the Mississippi with blazing wrecks that became funeral pyres for the child and its mother as well as for manhood in its prime. It is asserted that some informal rebel agency only lately sacrificed the Sultana and fifteen hundred [illegible] most of whom were just freed from rebel prison pens in Georgia. All these things cry aloud to Heaven and the history of America will be [illegible] if the lesson is not read upon its pages that treason with this black record expiated its crimes upon the scaffold.

For merely political offences we have no recourse to foreign powers as to the persons of the guilty. Our own course has established such a precedent but when criminals from justice as assassins and incendiaries seek refuge among friendly powers we can expect their arrest and surrender and the honor of the nation requires that Jefferson Davis and the chief accomplices in the murder of President Lincoln shall be [illegible] and that demand sustained by all the power of our Government.

The South to be Opened to Trade Again.

NEW YORK, May [illegible] — A special to the Tribune says: One of the most protracted and important cabinet sessions held since Johnson's accession to the Presidency was held at the Treasury Department yesterday. The subject matter of the discussion was the free trade question as regards the South. It is understood that the whole system of granting cotton permits and trade permits to certain classes (favorites), was thoroughly ventilated and denounced, although there was a decided preponderance in favor of opening trade in all parts of the South not subject to [illegible] authorities. It is believed [illegible] that every facility will be extended by the Government for all proper [illegible] transactions and as a consequence of this [illegible] are at a heavy decline in the market.

[illegible]—The Victoria Colonist of April 27th learns [illegible] who arrived there on the steamer [illegible] [illegible] times are very hard in Portland, and [illegible] of miners who rushed up [illegible] are walking about Portland and the [illegible] the Columbia doing nothing. They each had about the same distance [illegible], if anything the former a block the farthest, and [illegible] not the difference of a tick of the watch in the [illegible] striking the flames and in three [illegible] was out with less than $100 damage to [illegible] The several other companies of the city [illegible] on the spot.

[illegible].—Yesterday was hot but Saturday [illegible] hotter, according to the feelings of individuals [illegible] very quiet, scarcely a rustle in the trees on [illegible] and the heat was rigorous in bringing men to [illegible] not made by nature if leafy branches [illegible] wants to know how much hotter the weather [illegible] If he will observe our meteorological [illegible] few months, he will ascertain.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Our report of the [illegible] [illegible] was unavoidably crowded out of [illegible] [illegible] notwithstanding his Honor had been kept [illegible] Friday [illegible] filling to the wants of those [illegible] call [illegible] long the [illegible] amount [illegible] statute [illegible] equally with the balance [illegible] Judge [illegible] [illegible] on Thursday [illegible] [illegible] the full weight [illegible] [illegible] and paid the several amounts assessed [illegible] to them. Some of them are [illegible] the [illegible] being [illegible] [illegible] Wm [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] $10 and [illegible] Walters [illegible] Wm [illegible] Hall $[illegible] On Saturday [illegible] [illegible] On Friday morning [illegible] before Recorder [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] it was dismissed at the request of the Prosecuting Attorney [illegible] [illegible] As this [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] Mr. Hodgkins [illegible] [illegible] Attorney [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the rightful [illegible] [illegible] prove that these boys and others [illegible] [illegible] bad boys yet there was no evidence [illegible] [illegible] they would have to be prosecuted with [illegible] the [illegible] State statutes [illegible] [illegible] punishment [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the proceeding [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] own knowledge that [illegible] by the Prosecuting Attorney was the proper one. [illegible] probability [illegible] it would necessarily [illegible] the county [illegible] [illegible] increase the feelings of parents and relatives but it may as well be [illegible] that the time has passed when this class of offenders will be allowed to go [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] of [illegible] the youth of our city during the last [illegible] months [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] there are as hardened criminals and [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the average of the convicts found in the Penitentiary. A short time since a party of [illegible] proceeded to near Linn City in a boat, then went to the house of a Norwegian [illegible] miles west. At that place and during his absence ransacked the place and not finding any valuables [illegible] [illegible] also a valise [illegible] from Linn City. One of the party was known, and as they had been [illegible] of [illegible] their [illegible] was established. They all live in Portland. Besides this successful instance have come to our knowledge tending to the conviction that the amount of depravity existing among the youth of Portland is perfectly astounding. What we need and must soon have is some reformatory [illegible], to separate the bad and to prevent a further spread of the evil influence and spirit of insubordination amongst our youths. Under our City Charter the Common Council has power to provide for the erection of a city jail, house of correction, etc. We would suggest that the Common Council appoint a committee to investigate the state of morals now existing among the youth of this city, and if it be found as we have stated then let the Council take immediate steps to purchase grounds outside the city limits and erect the necessary buildings for a house of correction, no matter if it cost the city $10,000 or $20,000 and without any [illegible] setting forth mission enrors we predict such an institution would soon contain from 50 to 75 pupils. We regret having to make these statements yet they are fearfully true. No chastening is for the time pleasant but grievous. The necessity for action on the part of our city government is urgent and further neglect would be criminal.

OF
WILD CHERRY!
HAS BEEN USED FOR NEARLY HALF A CENTURY,
WITH THE MOST ASTONISHING SUCCESS IN CURING
Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Croup, Liver Complaint, Bronchitis, Difficulty of Breathing, Asthma, and every affection of the THROAT, LUNGS, AND CHEST, INCLUDING EVEN CONSUMPTION.
There is scarcely one individual in the community who wholly escapes during a season from some one, however slightly developed, of the above symptoms—a neglect of which might lead to the last named, and most to be dreaded disease in the whole catalogue. The power of "medicinal gum" of the Wild Cherry Tree over this class of complaints is well known; so great is the good it has performed, and so great the popularity it has acquired.
In this preparation, besides the virtues of the Cherry, there are commingled with it other ingredients of like value, thus increasing its value ten fold, and forming a Remedy whose power to soothe, to heal, to relieve, and to cure disease, exists in no other medicine yet discovered.
The unequalled success that has attended the application of this medicine in all cases of
PULMONARY COMPLAINTS
has induced many physicians of high standing to employ it in their practice, some of whom advise us of the fact under their own signatures. We have space only for the names of a few of these:—

E. BOYDEN, M. D., Exeter, Me.
ALEXANDER HATCH, M. D., China, Me.

W. B. LYNCH, M. D., Auburn, N. Y.
ABRAHAM SKILLMAN, M. D., Boundbrook, N. J.
H. D. MARTIN, M. D., Mansfield, Pa.
The proprietors have letters from all classes of our fellow citizens, from the halls of Congress to the humblest cottage, and even from beyond the seas; for the fame and virtue of WISTAR'S BALSAM have extended to the uttermost bounds of the earth, without any attempt on our part to introduce it beyond the limits of our own country.
TO CALIFORNIANS AND OREGONIANS.
After October 1, 1863, all genuine WISTAR'S BALSAM of WILD CHERRY for the Pacific Coast will be enclosed in a new wrapper which will bear the printed names of both SETH W. NEWELL'S
PULMONARY SYRUP
HAS CURED THOUSANDS!
And it will Cure You!
"A Cough is usually the effect of a Cold, which has either been improperly treated or entirely neglected. When it proves obstinate there is Always reason to fear the consequences,

STOP THAT COUGHING!
Some of you can't, and we pity you. You have tried every remedy but the one destined, by its intrinsic merit, to supercede all similar preparations. It is not surprising you should be reluctant to try something else after the many experiments you have made of truly worthless [illegible] foisted on the public as a certain cure; but
NEWELL'S
Pulmonary Syrup!
Is really the VERY BEST [illegible] ever [illegible] found for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Consumption. Thousands of people in California and Oregon have been [illegible] benefited by its surprising curative powers.
WHAT KILLED HIM?

He Had a Cold!
Which, by some injudicious prescription, had been converted into asthma." Let me say to Dr. Hall that that "prescription" was not

A Bull-fight for a Wife

AN ADVENTURE IN SPAIN

(Concluded)

I looked up at the endless tiers of spectators—the ladies with their flashing eyes and waving fans, some in the old Spanish dress, but most in Paris millinery—at the dandies of Malaga—the [illegible] shopkeepers and artisans, whole families together, from the delighted old grandsire to the child in arms that was being taught how to clap its little hands and crow at the sight of blood—at the multitude of peasants in holiday attire, such as their ancestors wore in the days of Ferdinand and Isabella. I gave a glance at the place where the captain general in his rich uniform blazing with decorations sat among a brilliant group of officers and ladies, who [illegible] such a scene. And then I looked down at the ring.

As yet the sport had been merely of an introductory character. Three or four bulls had been worried with trident and flags. A [illegible] these pacific animals are called whose temper is known to be meek had been tormented with squibs, barbed darts and the [illegible] brandishing of red scarfs before his eyes, and had finally been despatched by those who did what may be called the [illegible] of the theater. And now a fine bull with wide-spreading horns was in possession of the ring. This animal, however, disappointed the amateurs of the arena by showing more desire to escape than ferocity. He ran round and round seeking an outlet, and bellowing piteously, as the active tormentors on foot, with banners and scarfs, ran nimbly around him, taunting and teasing him, until his hide was like a pincushion stuck full of tiny barbed darts adorned with colored paper. Of this too the people grew weary, and a general shout arose.

"[illegible] toro! the Murcian bull at once! No, the Portuguese! Let the English matador show us what stuff he is made of! Toros!"

The manager looked up appealingly to the captain general, and receiving an august nod of permission, bustled out. Very soon there was a flourish of trumpets and then a drop o[f] [illegible] and then [illegible] clapping of hands and buzzing of countless voices; the brindled Murcian bull came in a heavy canter into the ring, stopped short, lifted his head and gave a second roar of impatient anger. A noble beast he was, and the people enthusiastically shouted forth their comments on his tossing mane, his deep chest, his dauntless look, the strength of his limbs, and the sharpness of his horns. Then, to the sound of martial music, in poured the mounted picadors, two and two, fluttering with bright ribands, and dressed in the old Castilian garb. They lowered their lances before the captain general and rode three times around the arena to exhibit their bright scarfs and rich jackets, while the cymbals clashed and the drums rolled out their loudest notes. The bull pawed the ground, distended his nostrils, and with a short bellowing cry stooped his head and began the attack. The words, "Bravo toro!" rent the very sky.

It was a butchery business at the best, though I admit that the rich dresses, the long lances and waving of scarf and riband, and plume, gave a false glitter and gallantry to what was really a very dastardly and disgusting scene. The picadors, padded as they were, and furnished with immense boots through which the bulls horns could not pierce, while scores of watchful picadors stood ready to distract the animal's attention in case of need, or to carry off a prostrate combatant, were safe enough. But the bull, itself bleeding from the repeated lance thrusts, did great execution among the horses, plunging his sharp horns into their quivering flanks again and again, and inflicting ghastly wounds, while still the wretched steeds went reeling round the ring until the loss of blood made them drop down dying on the ensanguined sand. And still the music played its most stirring strains, and still the people shouted, while the ladies waved fans and handkerchiefs in token of applause, and all the gory savagery of the Spanish national sport went on with sickening repetition. At last, nine horses being dead or frightfully injured, two picadors having been bruised by falling against the oaken barriers, and the bull being much spent, the remaining horsemen left the ring. Ropes and hooks were fixed to the carcasses of the slain horses and they were dragged away, and fresh sand and sawdust were thrown down. It was time for the matador to appear.

"Now Englishman, they are waiting for you. Remember the thrust and be cool," whispered the manager. He led me into the ring, and I made my bow to the captain general and another to the audience, while the manager with much grandiloquence presented me to the public as "Don Enriques of London, the distinguished volunteer who had so kindly undertaken to fill the office of the eminent Manuel Zagal." Scarcely had he finished this speech before the bull began to advance, and my introducer hastily retired. I stood alone in the ring, my heart beating thickly, and a red film seeming to obscure my dazzled eyes, while the clamor of the crowd, and the consciousness that I was the mark on which thousands were gazing in pitiless expectation, almost unnerved me. I had faced danger before, but not in such a shape, and I am not ashamed to own that for a moment my knees felt strangely weak and my pulse fluttered like a bird over which the hawks hover. Then came back the thought of Alice and I was myself once more. Disregarding the spectators, I bent my whole attention on the bull, which was slowly approaching me, with its head bent down and bloody foam dropping from its lips. I steadied myself on my feet, carrying the cloak gathered up on my left arm, and with my right I kept the sword pointed to the earth ready to spring aside when my antagonist should charge. But the bull was more hurt than I had expected. His movements were slow and painful, and the blood trickled fast from his brindled flanks. His rolling eyes fixed upon me, then he gave a roar and dashed at me, while following the manager's instructions, I avoided him by springing aside. I thought the animal would have wheeled and [illegible] the attack, but the last rush had manifestly exhausted his remaining strength. He fell on his knees, and did not rise till the men on foot beset him with squibs and darts, when pain and fury revived his forces, and he again made a floundering charge. This time I stepped aside, and, without throwing the cloak over the bull's horns, plunged the sword into his neck. He fell, and the audience set up a shout of "Well done, Inglese!"

"That was an easy victory," whispered my friend, the manager, as he led me off, after making my bow to the people; "but don't let it make you rash. The poor brute was bleeding to death, anybody could see that! It will be different with the black Portuguese."

And so it proved, for the audience loudly demanded that the lances of the picadors should be tipped with wood, all save a point two inches long, so that the next bull show better sport. And not to dwell on details, after five or six horses had been disabled the picadors retired, and amid a flourish of trumpets I was placed face to face with the black Portuguese.

"Bravo, toro! look what a wicked eye he has! I bet an ounce of gold on the bull," shouted one amateur, springing to his feet, and there was a burst of laughter at the offer of this wager, but a breathless silence succeeded as I advanced, step by step, toward where the bull stood, pawing up the loose sand with his fore feet and roaring low as he watched me. He was a superb beast, very large, but a model of symmetry, and his sable coat, spotted now with froth and gore, was as glossy as satin. He was very little hurt, his bloodshot eyes rolled fiercely; he was evidently gathering strength to renew the battle. On my part I was well aware that my life hung by a thread, but that if I could conquer this one bull, the last survivor, my work would be done, and the money—the price of a man's safety—would be earned. A hasty word of prayer rose from my heart to my lips, and I advanced cautiously but firmly. The bull appeared to be in no hurry. He watched with heaving flanks close to one of the barriers while I drew near.

"Have a care, Englishman, have a care! he means mischief!" cried a [illegible] well meaning spectator in the front row. Scarcely were the words uttered before, with a deep and sudden roar, the black bull came thundering down upon me in headlong charge. It was all that I could do to spring aside, and the bull, unable to check himself, dashed his head against the wooden barriers with a violence that made women in the lower tier scream with affright. But with great quickness the huge beast recovered himself and came rushing toward me with his head [illegible]. Again I sprang aside, but so narrow was my escape that one of the sharp horns caught the sleeve of my gaudy jacket and ripped it open from wrist to elbow, while the applause of the audience [illegible] the stroke. Before I could use my sword the bull [illegible] wheeled and I was forced to trust for my life to my superior speed of foot, running round the ring, hotly chased by the bull, whose feet sank in the loose sand. I then turned and made an ineffectual effort to throw the red cloak over the eyes of my terrible antagonist, but the crafty beast eluded me and then, as I sprang out of the way, I felt a sharp pang [illegible] my left arm and side and staggered [illegible] almost dropping the sword. The people set up a cry, "Toro! [illegible] the black bull for ever! Well done, bull! [illegible] the Englishman [illegible]."

A crimson mist [illegible] before my eyes. I grew dizzy and the roar of the audience [illegible] me. Was all indeed [illegible]. Half mechanically, while the blood [illegible] from my wounded arm [illegible] around me. The bull was close by. I saw his glaring eyes and tossing horns; he lowered his head and made a fresh charge. Hardly knowing what I did, I thrust [illegible] the [illegible] I saw [illegible] planted my foot firmly, and then there was a rush, a fall, a roaring, [illegible] again, and then I was lying, limp and [illegible] reeling like a broken man as the manager supported me, [illegible] me bow to the audience, while they shouted "Well [illegible] the Englishman! Viva! Viva!" Well I [illegible] rose from the sands of the [illegible] the lay the carcass of the black Portuguese. My sword had gone [illegible] [illegible] was that I [illegible] to the [illegible] of the [illegible] washing of my hurts.

"Caramba!" [illegible] a dangerous affair," [illegible] "but you have escaped [illegible] my young friend, after all."

[illegible] I [illegible] the money [illegible] I had earned being forwarded [illegible] [illegible] the following day. My friend was set at liberty. Mere [illegible] of his word [illegible] equally well [illegible] whose ransom was paid [illegible] prisoner. I will not [illegible] Alice's joy at being united to the father whom she had mourned as dead, nor the mingled terror and gratitude with which the darling girl learned the desperate means I had taken to save him. I am captain of the Tulsa now, and Alice is my wife, and in [illegible] English home in which we have lived happily together so long she has often recalled, with tears and smiles, that episode in our lives which was so nearly proving tragical at Malaga.—All the Year Round.

Returning Loyalty in the South.—Some surprise is expressed that manifestations of Southern loyalty do not present themselves more freely as our armies advance across the territory wrested from the Confederacy. In many cases the people [illegible] manifest much joy at the sight of the old flag, [illegible] as a general rule the Southern masses are too largely in an [illegible] condition of a patient thoroughly exhausted by a malarious fever, whose whole mental and physical system is so unstrung [illegible] by frequent alternations of scorching fever and freezing chills that he has become alike indifferent to joy or sorrow.

Nevertheless, the manifestations of reviving loyalty are by no means few. Even at Charleston the reception of Union troops on their first entry was very cordial, and now the public expression there in favor of the re-establishment and maintaining law and order under the Federal Government is quite unanimous. This expression is led by many gentlemen of wealth and influence whose conduct has ever been looked up to with great respect in that section, and who remained in Charleston when the rebel troops evacuated the city. Among the number is ex-Governor Aiken, once the largest slaveholder in America, who is said to have accepted freely the decree of emancipation, and to have presented to his more than 700 remaining negroes the evidence of his freedom, together with a gift of a small plat of land. Mr. Aiken has always been rated among Southern men for his extremely liberal and Catholic sentiments, no less than for his courtly manners, and exceeding amiability. I well remember meeting him at a dinner party given by the then Senator W. H. Seward, many years ago, at a time when party sentiment ran high on the slavery question, and Southern Congressmen as a class looked upon the distinguished leader of the anti-slavery extension movements as a very Satan minus the horns. On the same occasion were present John M. Clayton, Thomas H. Benton, the French and Russian Ministers and Horace Greeley. No gentleman was more completely at his ease in the house of the "abolition leader," or less embarrassed in conversing on the topics of the day than was Mr. Aiken, and no one among them all manifested a kindlier regard for the host, or had a higher appreciation of the clear perceptions and high moral courage which had made him the champion of an unpopular though righteous cause. It was even then apparent that Mr. Aiken's mind was half open to the penetration of liberal sentiments, and there is less occasion, therefore, to be surprised now, when we find him the very chief of the practicable abolitionists.—Wash. Cor. of the Bulletin.

The Statesman thinks that a National Bank would be an excellent substitute for a mint. We doubt not that the National Banking system will eventually be adopted on this coast, but the use of paper does not necessarily exclude a specie currency. The people of British Columbia have a banking system modelled after that of the parent country, but this fact has not prevented the establishment of a Branch Mint at New Westminster. Treasure previous to being converted into coin, cannot be handled conveniently, and this is one of the reasons for the establishment of mints. If the Statesman prefers it, we shall not object to a greenback manufactory at Salem, but at the same time we shall not abate one jot in our efforts to secure for the Northern mines a Branch Mint.—Mountaineer.

What! going to secure a Mint? Why, we thought you said you had the Mint already secured at the Dalles.

Death of Gov. Cannon.—The telegraph brings us the melancholy tidings of the death of Hon. William Cannon, the able, distinguished and patriotic Chief Magistrate of the State of Delaware. No event of recent date will be more sincerely deplored than this, occurring too, at a time when his services were of so much importance to the progress of the State in the great pathway of the future. He was a thorough Union man elected by the Union party when the country was in the crisis of her destiny. He has wielded the powers of his high office with a firm, unwavering hand, and left no doubt as to his course or his sentiments on the existing questions of the day. He earned the admiration of his countrymen by his advocacy of the emancipation system in Delaware, and his State papers on that subject are cogent and interesting.—Phil. North Amer.

D. F. Evans, the poor wretch who deliberately murdered his wife, father and mother, in Michigan a few weeks ago, instead of occupying his mind with matters suitable to his case, seems to be studying and planning how he can make the most money out of the morbid curiosity created by his unparalleled crimes. To this end he advertises that he is engaged in getting out an autobiography, to include a full account of his life, all the circumstances of his murders, &c., &c. It is reported that he has applied to Barnum to buy the clothing in which he murdered his parents and wife! An Adrian paper publishes a card signed by him warning the public against purchasing certain photographs of him because he is about getting out some "genuine" ones, taken with the clothes he had on at the time of the murder." He also says he will soon have pictures of both of his wives, and advertises for agents.

A lad applied to the captain of a vessel for a berth; the captain, wishing to intimidate him, handed him a piece of rope and said, "If you want to make a good sailor, you must make three ends to the rope."

"I can do it," he readily replied; "here is one and here is another—that makes two. Now, here's the third," and he threw it overboard.

Big George, who for an uncultivated savage may be accounted sharp, virtually said in his speech at Fort Churchill: "White men have the advantage of Indians in that they can outswear us." What would he think of a white man's ability in that way, says the Carson Post, after watching the progress of a mining suit at Virginia.

THE OREGON FARMER

Cr[illegible] on Peas.—Has the farmer a [illegible] piece of land mellow [illegible] [illegible]. It would be likely to produce a good crop of peas. Late experiments prove that on such soil peas should be planted six or eight inches deep. This being the case, the ground in the fall [illegible] they can be plowed in [illegible] six or eight inches in the ground will produce much larger crops than peas planted near the surface. A great many varieties of peas will answer for field crops. The [illegible] merit for this purpose are the early yellow and late Marrowfat. The Champion of England pea is not so frequently used for the field. It is a [illegible] [illegible] green and rich pea, and if the crop is not [illegible] fattening hogs it will bring good [illegible] and will find market for culinary purposes [illegible] Seed peas can be had at the [illegible]

[illegible] are most valuable for bringing pigs forward and fattening them. They can be fed as soon as they begin to harden, and when hard they can be scalded and swelled twice their natural size. In England, where corn cannot be grown, a mixture of peas and barley is considered superior to any other food for making pork. We think [illegible] that the growing of peas and barley here for the same purpose would be found [illegible] able.

Dwarf Corn.—Within the past five years increased attention has been paid in Oregon to the cultivation of corn. In some [illegible] a variety from New [illegible] yellow [illegible] [illegible] excellent specimens have been on exhibition at our State Fair, but we apprehend that more reliance can be placed on the cultivation of the King Philip corn than on any other variety. This corn originated in the north part of New Hampshire. The crop there is matured in some ninety days from the planting. Our cool nights would somewhat retard the ripening. This corn has a small and short stock, a long ear with a very small cob, and the kernels, which are of a reddish brown color, contain an unusual quantity of oil, which makes the grain very valuable for its fattening qualities. We know of some persons who have raised good crops of this corn. Robert Pittock, merchant of Portland, has the seed for sale.

Osage Orange Hedge.—The use of this hedge in Oregon need not be considered as a matter of speculation. Senator Nesmith has a hedge some fifty rods long that would turn a mad bull. The growing of hedges need not be expensive. They are now grown for four years—or until a perfect fence is made—in the Western States at eighty cents a rod. In the prairie regions as high as latitude 40° the growth of the plant on hedges is rapidly increasing. Above latitude 40° the winters sometimes kill the plant exposed, but not the roots, and the fence is unreliable.

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN

DOUBLE TURBINE WATER WHEEL!

LEFFEL'S AMERICAN TURBINE HAS many advantages over all other Wheels, both Turbines and Overshot.

It has competed successfully with every variety of Wheel, and has always proved itself victorious.

This Wheel has been in use nearly Three Years in the State and HAS NEVER MADE A FAILURE.

It is CHEAPER than an Overshot, MORE DURABLE and will YIELD A HIGHER PER CENT OF POWER from the same quantity of water. We have lately shipped five of this [illegible]. They are not all in operation yet, but will be in a few days. The following testimonial is from an old and experienced Mill wright, well known in this State:

WESTPORT, CLATSOP CO., OREGON,
Nov 19th 1864

Messrs. Leffel & Myers—Dear Sirs: We have plenty of water now and your DOUBLE TURBINE is in successful operation. We are satisfied that your Wheel is fully equal if not superior to the Overshot. With the same water that the Overshot uses, we can do more work with the Turbine than with the Overshot. I have tried many Wheels which were claimed to be superior [illegible] Overshot [illegible] in the [illegible]. [illegible] I [illegible] recommend the American Double Turbine as the most efficient economizer of water in market. [illegible]

THE WORLD RENOWNED

SINGER SEWING MACHINES!

MANUFACTORY

182, 184, 186, 188, 190 and 194 Mott street, New York.

Motto—"The Singer Sewing Machines are the only Machines that can Sew all kinds of Cloth and with all kinds of Thread."

Singer's Letter A Family Machine is the best and cheapest Machine in the world for Family Sewing. There is no doubt as to the value of our Machines for manufacturing purposes, but it is only of late that the public began to learn that the essential elements of a Machine best adapted to the heaviest work would also be the elements to be embodied in a Family Machine.

We would ask for our Letter A Machines the attention of Vest Makers and Dress Makers, and all those who want Machines for Light Manufacturing Purposes. They embody the principles of the Manufacturing Machines, making like them the lock stitch, and are destined to be as celebrated for FAMILY SEWING and Light Manufacturing purposes as our Manufacturing Machines are for manufacturing purposes in general.

FAMILY SEWING MACHINES are valuable in proportion to the number of things they can do well. See what ours can do before making a purchase.

☞ All persons requiring information about Sewing Machines, their sizes, prices, working capacities, and the best method of purchasing, can obtain it by sending for a copy of THE SINGER MANUFACTURING COMPANY'S ILLUSTRATED PAMPHLET, which is entirely devoted to the subject. IT WILL BE SENT GRATIS.

LILLIE'S LOCK OPENED

In One Minute.

New York, September 2[illegible], 1864.

F. Tilton, Esq., 218 Battery street,
Between Commercial and Clay, San Francisco.

DEAR SIR; WE NOTICE AN ADvertisement in your daily papers respecting the security of the Lillie lock. We are aware that you well understand this lock, and of course will not allow yourself to be annoyed by such representations. We have just sent [illegible] one of our men to the factory, and he in our presence opened one of Lillie's best safe locks, after it had been locked and the combination turned on,

By One Blow of the Hammer

Against the knob at the outside and thereby breaking the cast iron of [illegible].

The whole time occupied in opening the lock was about ONE MINUTE. We send you this lock that you may not be [illegible] by false representations. [illegible]

Respectfully, etc.

A. F. TILTON,
WM. McFARLAND.

NO PRACTICAL

Lock Picker or Thimble Rigger

Required to

OPERATE THE SAID LILLIE LOCK.

Any parties desirous of seeing the above mentioned lock, its insecurity and easy mode of opening the same, can call at 218 Battery Street, San Francisco.

Gloucester, March 26, 1864.

Messrs. Tilton & McFarland,
Safe Manufacturers, Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen: From representations made by Mr. Lillie, I was induced to purchase of him one of his

So Called "Fire Proof Safes."

On the 18th of February last, a fire occurred in our [illegible] which destroyed a number of buildings, and our own with the rest. We trusted our books, papers and all in the safe. After the fire the so called safe was taken from the ruins, and on opening it we found that Everything had been Destroyed.

We send you the safe with what is left of the papers, and you will see that not one of them is legible or strong enough to sustain its own weight. Having the curiosity to know how our neighbors fared in this fire, we noticed McKenzie & Hardy just opening their safe (TILTON & McFARLAND'S make) and its contents were found to be

In Perfect Condition.

This led us to further investigation, and we found to our astonishment that from the large amount of combustible material in Messrs. McK. & H.'s cellar, such as lard, pork, etc., their safe was subjected to a much greater heat than that of our own, we being in the clothing business and had but little in the cellar. Their safe was subjected to the same fire [illegible] Lillie's safe here subjected to the same fire[illegible], however, no better than ours.

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servants,

(Signed.) GEO. L. CHESEBRO & CO.

TILTON & McFARLAND'S

SAFE,

The Only Protection

Against Fire and Burglars.

For the last Fifteen Years

This Safe has been well known in California and the Eastern States. They have resisted all the fires on the Pacific Coast, and we can point with satisfaction to the record that out of one of our Safes by means of Burglars. Their fire and burglar proof qualities are so well known that they need no further recommendation.

A good assortment of Tilton & McFarland's Fire and Burglar Proof Safes to be had at LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, [illegible] and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC, SEDATIVE, DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS' TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it, if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
